

The Snow Fairy

By Martha B. Thomas

I DON'T suppose two noses were ever pressed more firmly against a window-glass than those belonging to Jerry and Sally. If you were to look at them from the outside, in their front yard, for instance, they would not seem like noses at all; you would say that Jerry and Sally had snuggled up as close as possible against the nearest thing to getting out—a window.

Jerry dug his fists down into his pockets and looked as cross as a bear. Sally blinked very fast to keep the tears from rolling down her cheeks, and her two pigtails quivered unhelpfully.

"We'll miss the party and the games, and the goodies . . . and every thing!" she wailed.

"I don't care about the old party!" declared Jerry scornfully. "What I want is to get out and make a snowman. Look at all this perfectly good snow going to waste! I call it a shame!" And you would have thought by his tone that all blizzards were invented for the express purpose of giving little boys the opportunity of playing in it.

"Mary Randall's going to wear her new pink dress and her slippers!" sniffed Sally, "and I have a red dress and new slippers too-o!" This last thought was almost too much, and one large tear did manage to tumble over and down her cheek. Jerry pretended not to see it. Perhaps he was having trouble with his own eyes, though of course boys never cry, not even when tomorrow's Christmas and everything is spoiled because of whooping cough.

"Mother said we should have to have a party by ourselves and make believe that lots of people came to it," said Sally.

Jerry grunted. He didn't care much for this make-believe stuff—too silly, said. "Let's sit down in front of the open fire," suggested Sally, "and tell stories. I'm tired of looking out of the window. Perhaps something nice will happen; you can tell."

So the two children settled themselves in front of the fire. They drew up two low stools and they each sat with their elbows on their knees and their chins in their hands. It was very warm and cozy. The logs crackled and sputtered as though they were doing their best to cheer other people up, and the dancing flames had a regular parade up and down the wood. It was late afternoon and growing a little dark.

Suddenly Sally's pigtails stuck out straight behind her in surprise. "What's that?" she whispered, and her eyes were big as saucers.

"Where?" asked Jerry, a little startled too.

"I saw something white sit in the door!"

"So did I!"

The children looked cautiously around. Nothing was to be seen.

"I call it a Shame!"

The "endless chain" or "snowball" is a practice of considerable antiquity. In 1878 Pope Innocent XI condemned the circulation of prayers in this way. Some years ago a writer in the Boston Examiner calculated that were the "conditions" fulfilled each letter would produce 400,000,000 in nine days.

Leeches—Artistically Colored. Some species of leeches found in lands of the South seas are beautifully colored.

His First Christmas Tree

Photo by Universal & Underwood

Just an ordinary room, a bright fire and two children in front of it. "Funny," mused Sally. "There was the faintest rustle by the clock on the mantel. It sounded like snowflakes talking together. 'There! I heard something again!'" said Sally.

Each child stared at the clock, for that was where the sound came from.

It was quite dark by this time, except for the light from the logs, so it was natural that Jerry and Sally did not at first see the little person perched on the edge of the mantel.

"How do you do?" asked a tiny voice. "I tinkled like a fairy sleigh-bell."

"Mercy!" exclaimed Sally. Jerry just winked his eyes very fast. "Here I am up by the clock," tinkled the voice again.

And sure enough, there she was indeed! The children saw her now. A wee, slender bit of a thing about the size of a sweet pea. And she was the whitest creature you could imagine. Snowflake ruffles with crystal trimming, icicle jewels in her hair, and eyes bright and frosty as stars.

Jerry and Sally gasped. Sally wanted to jump up and hug her. But you can't do that with a Snow Fairy; she'd melt all to pieces in your fingers, and then where would you be?

"I have come to pay you a little call," laughed the fairy, "because I like to talk with children who are ill and can't go out. I just came from a house down the street where a baby is cutting a tooth. Such a cunning baby! I played hide and seek under its chin, and you should have heard him gurgled! He forgot all about that tooth that was making so much fuss about coming through. I left him kicking up his heels and crowling like a young rooster!"

Sally and Jerry laughed. "Shall I dance for you?" asked the Snow Fairy politely.

"Oh, yes!" beamed the children. Up jumped the white little person, and in the twinkling of an eye she had begun. The children never saw such dancing in their lives.

The Snow Fairy pirouetted on top of the clock; she whirled like a crystal prism. She jumped down and made a low bow to a china shepherdess, and then the shepherdess threw away her crook and danced with the fairy. Away they went, whirling and bobbing and turning and dipping. They jumped over vases, they pecked out behind pictures, they fairly flew through the air until you could not tell which was the Snow Fairy and which the china shepherdess.

Jerry and Sally clapped their hands and laughed until they could laugh no longer. They forgot all about parties and new slippers and making snowmen.

Then the strangest thing happened. They could not see the Snow Fairy at all. She wasn't there, and if you'll believe me, the china shepherdess was standing stiffly in her old spot as though she'd never had a thought of moving in her life.

"Dear me!" said Sally rubbing her eyes.

"Dear me!" said Jerry, rubbing his eyes. Mother came in soon after that. She stood smiling down upon them.

"Both you children were sound asleep on your stools when I was in here before. Do come and have something good to eat. I have a little party all ready for you."

All Sally and Jerry never said a word about the Snow Fairy. But they were as cheerful as cherubs the rest of the day.

Then the strangest thing happened. They could not see the Snow Fairy at all. She wasn't there, and if you'll believe me, the china shepherdess was standing stiffly in her old spot as though she'd never had a thought of moving in her life.

"Dear me!" said Sally rubbing her eyes.

"Dear me!" said Jerry, rubbing his eyes. Mother came in soon after that. She stood smiling down upon them.

"Both you children were sound asleep on your stools when I was in here before. Do come and have something good to eat. I have a little party all ready for you."

All Sally and Jerry never said a word about the Snow Fairy. But they were as cheerful as cherubs the rest of the day.

Then the strangest thing happened. They could not see the Snow Fairy at all. She wasn't there, and if you'll believe me, the china shepherdess was standing stiffly in her old spot as though she'd never had a thought of moving in her life.

"Dear me!" said Sally rubbing her eyes.

"Dear me!" said Jerry, rubbing his eyes. Mother came in soon after that. She stood smiling down upon them.

"Both you children were sound asleep on your stools when I was in here before. Do come and have something good to eat. I have a little party all ready for you."

All Sally and Jerry never said a word about the Snow Fairy. But they were as cheerful as cherubs the rest of the day.

Then the strangest thing happened. They could not see the Snow Fairy at all. She wasn't there, and if you'll believe me, the china shepherdess was standing stiffly in her old spot as though she'd never had a thought of moving in her life.

"Dear me!" said Sally rubbing her eyes.

"Dear me!" said Jerry, rubbing his eyes. Mother came in soon after that. She stood smiling down upon them.

"Both you children were sound asleep on your stools when I was in here before. Do come and have something good to eat. I have a little party all ready for you."

All Sally and Jerry never said a word about the Snow Fairy. But they were as cheerful as cherubs the rest of the day.

Then the strangest thing happened. They could not see the Snow Fairy at all. She wasn't there, and if you'll believe me, the china shepherdess was standing stiffly in her old spot as though she'd never had a thought of moving in her life.

"Dear me!" said Sally rubbing her eyes.

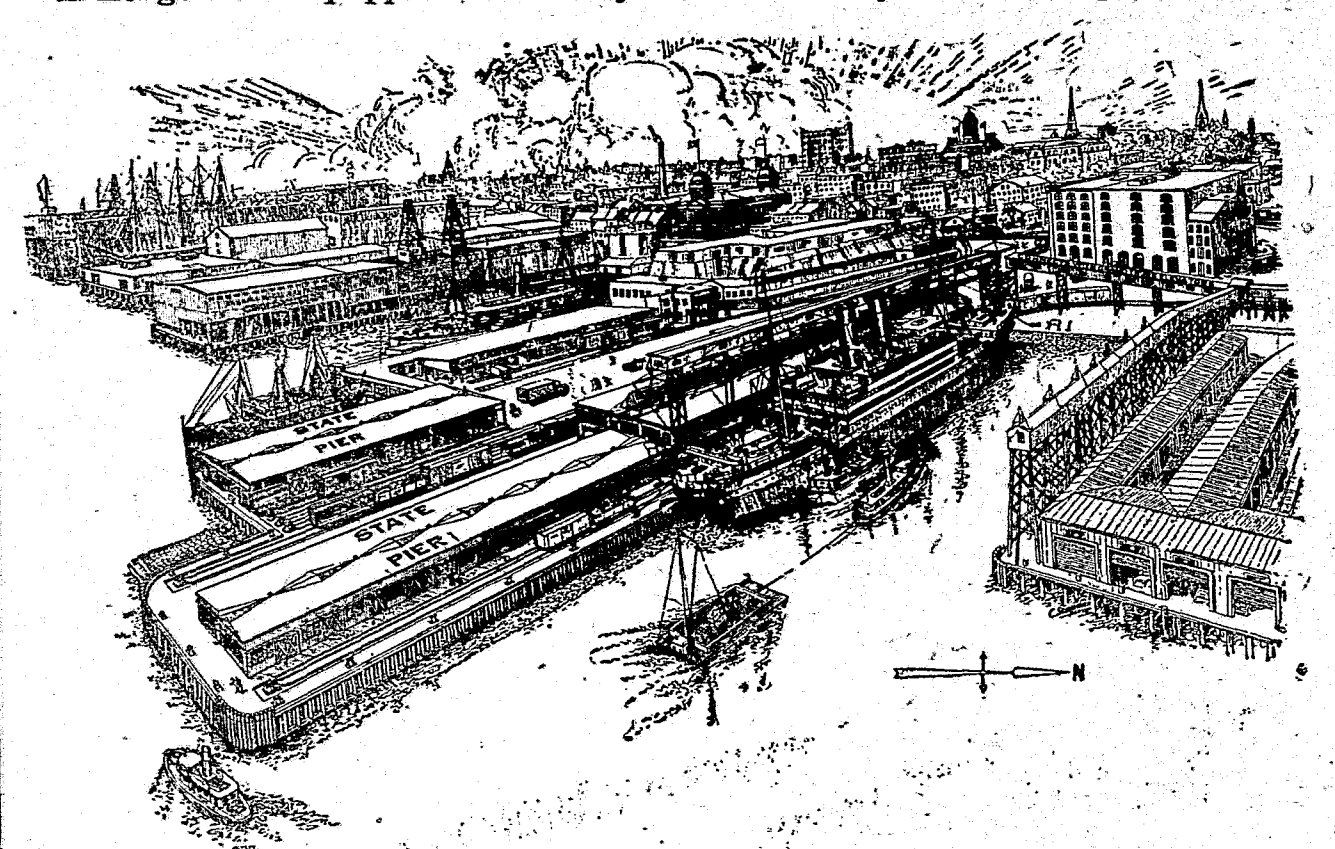

"Dear me!" said Jerry, rubbing his eyes. Mother came in soon after that. She stood smiling down upon them.

"Both you children were sound asleep on your stools when I was in here before. Do come and have something good to eat. I have a little party all ready for you."

All Sally and Jerry never said a word about the Snow Fairy. But they were as cheerful as cherubs the rest of the day.

STATE OF MAINE PIER IS APPROACHING COMPLETION

Will Be of Immense Benefit to Maine in Many Ways. Indications Point to Its Being One of Country's Most Successful State Owned Piers. Will Be 1,000 Feet in Length and Equipped With Every Modern Facility for Handling Its Business.

NEW STATE OF MAINE PIER AS IT WILL BE WHEN COMPLETED

The new State of Maine Pier being erected at the port of Portland, and which it is believed will save the people of Maine many hundreds of thousands of dollars in lower freight rates, better deliveries, increased transportation service, and a more favorable opportunity to reach the markets of the world, is rapidly nearing completion. It was originally hoped to have the big structure ready before the end of the present year, but delays in getting steel and other materials, due to strikes and other causes beyond the control of the port directors, have advanced the date of completion to early in 1923, possibly February or March.

The pier, however, is doing business, notwithstanding the fact that it is a long way from being finished. The Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., is using it for its regular Boston and New York services, and numerous other ships have already tied up to it and discharged cargoes. In fact, few state owned piers have a brighter outlook for future business than this one now being constructed by the State of Maine at the port of Portland. Already a number of the great trans-oceanic liners which are now crossing the ocean, several of which are carrying cargo from and to Portland, are being handled by the pier. It has also been built to handle the anticipated increase in the size of the ships of the future. Its south end is 144 feet across, and this may be utilized for docking smaller craft. The pier has been admirably planned so that its advantages begin to be exploited throughout both the eastern and western hemispheres that its business will increase by leaps and bounds.

Apparently the majority of the people of Maine know of the magnificent little about the great structure which they are building, and which it is believed will save the State many millions of dollars in lower freight charges to a minimum. All 110 freight cars may be stored on the pier, and the pier arrangements have been made by the pier directors whereby cars are set on and off the pier by both the Portland Terminal Company and the Grand Trunk Railway, without charge.

The most modern of sheds are to be built on the new pier, one of which, that located on the eastern end, is to be 600 feet long by 80 feet in width, of which one 300-foot section is to be two stories in height and built especially for handling the immense trans-Atlantic passenger business which goes to Portland, especially during the winter months. There will be up-to-the-minute facilities for handling passengers with full provisions for their baggage by the health, immigration and customs services of the United States. There is already one shed constructed and in operation for the New York steamer line, 60 by 250 feet, with a floor area of 15,000 square feet, and another 60 by 350 feet for the Boston steamer line with a floor area of 21,000 square feet. The total floor area of the sheds will be 138,000 square feet.

The equipment of the pier will include included dock elevators for handling cargo to and from ships with side ports, cargo beams for "burtoning" cargo from and to ocean going ships, a crane for handling heavy cargo, and electric tractors and piers and warehouse facilities for handling cargo within the pier sheds.

The port directors have also arranged with the Grand Trunk Railway so that conveyer galleries will be built onto the new State Pier, connecting with the two immense grain elevators handling the system, so that these structures will be made available for the State Pier and it will thus be possible to handle grain from them at the State Pier just as easily as it is now at any of the Grand Trunk wharves.

Statistics show that the majority of State piers have proven to be a wonderful investment for the states that have constructed them, but experts declare that no publicly owned pier has a brighter outlook than the one now being built at Portland by the State of Maine.

To Keep a Window Up. A simple and practical device for supporting windows that have no weights attached is made as follows: Take two double-pointed tacks and drive into the frame, one outside and one inside the window. Drive them in only half way. Then insert a long nail and let the window rest on the nail. The tack next to the nail head should be a little higher than the other, so the nail will not slide out and should be on the inside of the window. By having two or three sets of these tacks on a frame you can have your window raised to as many different places.

Fish Weatherwise. It is said that most fish, but trout in particular, know what the weather is going to be for about 24 hours in advance.

Thought for the Day. It's all right to look ahead, but many a man has wasted his past dreaming of the future.

Gifts for the Housewife. Very likely she would appreciate something that would add to the perfection of her table appointments, or to her home or those which would make her cooking or housekeeping more convenient. Here are a few gift suggestions:

The Popular Wearever and Viko Brands of Aluminum. Casseroles, Percolators, Tea Kettles, Fry Pans, Plates, Tea Pots, Crumb Sets. Pyrex Oven Glassware in Casseroles, Pie Plates, Bread Pans, Tea Pots, Cake Dishes, Platters. See the new Hardening Cut Glass and the Bowls in Gold and Jade Yellow.

A good stock of Community Silverware. A set of Florentine Art Candlesticks for your mantelpiece.

Gift Handkerchiefs. Best assortment and lowest prices we have had for years. White and colored, hemstitched, lace trimmed, hand embroidered. Handkerchiefs in fancy boxes for ladies and children. Handkerchiefs for men and boys—all sorts of Handkerchiefs.

Adorable Gift Things. in Linerie. A piece of linerie neatly packed in a holly box always carries its message of true friendship. We have the boxes and the undergarments. Here are garments of fine muslin and silk that are as attractive in their numerous modes as in their wide range of prices.

Royal State Embroidery Goods. The gift which is the result of a friend's handwork carries with it a double value and attractiveness. New pieces just in include: Towels, huck and linen; Turkish Towels, Unbleached Aprons, Flaxon Aprons, Organdy Aprons, Night Dresses, Pillow Tops, Table Runners, Luncheon Sets, etc.

Wiss Shears and Scissors, sold under a guarantee. New stock, lower prices.

Perfumes, Stationery, Shell Goods, Jewelry, Bead Necklaces, Ribbons and many other staple goods which lack of space forbids our mentioning here.

N. Dayton Bolster Co., SOUTH PARIS, MAINE.

CHRISTMAS GOODS! Solid Silver and Plated Spoons, Silver Ladles, Souvenir Bud Vases, Sweet Grass Baskets, Silk Boudoir Caps and Camisoles, Pretty Brown Beads and Bracelets, Spanish Combs, Barrettes, French Ivory Dressing Combs, Weather Hoods, Dolls from 5c to $6.00, and everything for dolly including Bedsteads, Trunks, Toilet Sets, Furs, Jewelry, Fans and Shoes; Toys, Christmas Post Cards and Greeting Cards.

F. M. & M. S. RICHARDS, SOUTH PARIS, MAINE.

W. J. WHEELER & CO., SOUTH PARIS, MAINE.

Married or Single, Young or Old,
Read, Reflect and Remember—

Christmas 1922

Everything here is GOOD. We are ready to meet the holiday trade demands, and with Christmas less than two weeks away, we suggest that you shop early so that when the day arrives you'll have everything that you intended to.

Pictures of clothing are very similar, but business policies differ vastly. Our advertisement this Christmas is as clear as printer's ink and this kind of paper will admit, and our policy of truthful advertising and reasonable prices, has qualified us for membership in the retail merchants' association, which is your guarantee of service and protection.

The spirit of Christmas is with us throughout the year, for we appreciate your patronage at all times, but when the Christmas season comes around each year, we endeavor to celebrate it with good offerings, so once again we suggest that you buy early, and remind you that there is less than two weeks before the world's greatest holiday, CHRISTMAS.

CHRISTMAS OFFERINGS

CHRISTMAS TIES

Latest style and highest grade four-in-hand, of extra quality fine silk, beautiful designs to please all tastes. The colors vary from white and hints to figures and stripes. Come in and examine these ties whether you intend to buy or not. As a present they would be greatly appreciated by the men folks.

XMAS UNDERWEAR

We ask you to examine the label on our Underwear. You will recognize it as the mark of quality. You know that this is the store that sells quality goods, so of course we sell quality Underwear, Cotton, Cotton and Wool, fleece lined, perfect fitting and long wearing.

CHRISTMAS SUITS

All you have to do is to step inside and make your selection. We have the newest and "snappiest" models direct from the House of Kuppenheimer. Fit, Finish and Fabric all that could be desired.

CHRISTMAS OVERCOATS

They are like an old friend "Tried and True." They give you the needed protection, whether from wind, cold, sleet or snow, just when you want it. We are showing a great assortment this Christmas.

Other Suitable Gifts

Garters, Suspenders, Mufflers, Sweaters, Slippers, Shoes for both Men and Women, Handkerchiefs, Hose, Gloves, Hats, Caps, Dress Suit Cases, Handbags and many other useful gifts that are too numerous to tell a story about. We will now print in big letters for you all

A Merry Christmas

EASTMAN & ANDREWS

31 Market Square, South Paris.

What Next? Christmas!

GIVE GIFTS THAT LAST

Call and See Our Large Assortment of Wrist Watches

... AND ... Gents' Watches JUST RECEIVED

See our new Sweater Pin Sets, Earrings, Sweetheart Lockets, Silver Puff-Kases, Gold Beads, Pearl Beads, Sport Beads, Rings for Men, Women and Children.

BEAUTIFUL PIECES OF Sterling Silver, Universal Silver, Community Silver and the Community Tudor Plate and Rogers Star Brand.

Clocks, Ingersoll Watches, Cut Glass, China, Cigarette Cases

AND Sheaffer's Fountain Pens and Pencils

AT John Pierce's

South Paris, Maine

Store will be open evenings this week and part of Christmas day.

Rev. Chester Gore Miller has presided over the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was written on the 10th of the four pages of the paper, and the whole page was covered with the address was written before the date of the newspaper was published, with which it was printed, and can be seen on the paper. It is a double-edged sword, as both sides of the paper are printed with the address of the dean of the Divinity School of St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., and a graphic letter written by Rev. John F. Fisher of Universalism, and that this letter will be one hundred years old come the 10th of next month. It is written in a beautiful hand and is entirely legible. It was

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor creases and discoloration. A dark, irregular stain is visible along the right edge, possibly from the binding or a previous page. The left edge shows the binding of the book.

